Council discusses zoning and sign changes

Lemon Grove's skyline is changing again.

This time it is the loss of two of the town's most prominent billboards—one about midway between Lemon Grove Avenue and Kempf Street; the other at the corner of Broadway and Kempf. Both are on the south side of Broadway.

City manager, Jack Shelver, told City Council Monday night that the agreement had been made "in concept" with Patrick Media Billboard Corp. to move the signs.

He said the agreement provides for the firm's signs to be erected on Federal Blvd.

The signs would be removed after negotiations are completed.

In other matters, Council agreed that it would be appropriate to amend the zoning ordinance to allow existing non-conforming commercial zone uses to expand under limited conditions.

The request was made by RCP Corp. at 8426 Broadway, at the end of Lemon Grove Way. Council concurred.

In another zoning matter, Larry Boerner, owner of the property at 8111 Lemon Grove Way, was deferred for two weeks regarding issuance of an automobile facility license.

The property is zoned residential, medium density, but Boerner claims the right to operate an automobile sales facility on the property because his tenant, W.E. Reese, has maintained an auto sales business at 8104 Lemon Grove Way, which also occupied portions of 8111 Lemon Grove Way.

At a prior hearing, it was established that any non-conforming use status that may have been established by Boerner in 1971 or Reese in 1978-1987, was no longer applicable because Reese had changed the use of the property. Boerner has testified that he should be allowed to continue use of the property as an automobile sales facility.

Council also approved a request for furniture for the new Senior Citizens Center. The center will be opened in mid-August, Shelver said.

Danielle Guffey crowned Miss Spring Valley

Danielle Guffey, 18, a five-foot, blue-eyed, blonde, was selected as Miss Spring Valley Friday evening, at the conclusion of the annual pageant held at the Latter Day Saints Church on Sweetwater Springs Boulevard in Spring Valley.

As the new Miss Spring Valley, Danielle will be spotlighted at many local events, and she will serve as Spring Valley's representative in parades and events outside of the community as well.

A graduate of Christian High School, Danielle is employed by Nordstrom in La Jolla, and she plans to attend college and major in journalism.

Danielle will compete as one of the 35 finalists in the Fairest of the Fair contest on Friday, May 26. The young woman who wins that crown will serve as the official hostess of the Del Mar Fair, which is sponsored annually by the 22nd District Agricultural Association. The fair is scheduled for June 16 through July 4.

The contest's first runner-up was Dana Hardin, 19. Kathryn Johnson, 17, was chosen as second runner-up. Dana Hardin also won the essay contest and Miss Photogenic. Kathryn Johnson was selected Miss Congeniality, an award determined by the contestants themselves.

Bill Griffith of KGTV, Channel 10, was master of ceremonies. Pageant judges were Steve Lubey of Lubey's Barber & Beauty Supply; Marla Mink, owner of Royal Mink Productions and Miss National City, 1973; Mary Nakawatase, a former Miss Arizona and current director of Foothills Players; James Quinn, president of American Capital Resources in La Jolla; Maritza Villa, a John Roberts Powers graduate, model and modeling instructor; Johnnie Eyrd, essay judge; John Henry, a photographer, who donated the portraits of the contestants, and judge of Miss Photogenic.

The Miss Spring Valley pageant is sponsored each year by the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, with the cooperation of the Spring Valley Community Center and a host of local businesses. The pageant was directed by Ralph Mitchell, with the assistance of Patty Simpson, Stacia Groen, Carmen Mitchell and Miss Spring Valley 1988, Jennifer Mergens.

Robbery, shooting, and indecent exposure suspects sought by police, reports Detective Bruce Fulton

A robbery suspect is being sought by local law enforcement in the investigation of an accident which occurred Sunday, April 2, at 8:30 p.m.

The male suspect, 17 to 20 years of age, is believed to be Filipino, according to Det. Bruce Fulton, spokesman for the Lemon Grove Sheriff's Dept.

Driving up to the drive-through window of the Kentucky Fried Chicken on Paradise Valley Road in Spring Valley, the suspect indicated he possessed a handgun and demanded that the employee inside give him money. The employee handed an estimated $55 to the suspect who fled in his vehicle, which was not identified in the report.

Other cases which were recently reported include a drive-by shooting and a male flasher.

At about 8:30 p.m. Saturday, April 1, an unknown person or persons shot at a vehicle parked on the 4900 block of Mt. Helix Drive in La Mesa. There were no injuries to the couple occupying the vehicle, even though the driver's side window was shattered. The victims were unable to describe the suspect or suspect's vehicle.

A white adult male exposed himself to a young mother and her 5-year-old daughter Saturday, April 1, as the victims bicycled toward a playground.

The incident occurred on the 1300 block of Skyline Drive in Lemon Grove. When the male made a lewd comment and fully exposed himself, the mother and daughter bicyclist turned and fled, taking a circuitous route, so as not to be pursued, the sheriff's report stated.

The young mother told deputies that the suspect may have been driving a small, blue 1986 Ford pick-up truck, which she later observed slowly cruising the neighborhood. She was unable to provide a physical description of the suspect.

Det. Bruce Fulton warns that a violent reaction from a victim encourages continued perverted behavior and provides the perpetrator with his reward. Fulton suggests that victims of flashers attempt to control their reactions and concentrate on obtaining a good description of the assailant, a vehicle description, and a license plate number.

Exam deadline

Persons wishing to take the next California High School Proficiency Examination (CHSPE) must register by mail not later than April 24, according to the California State Dept. of Education. The test itself will be held on May 20 at approximately 100 sites throughout the state.

To pass the 4-hour exam, a person must have a grasp of basic skills that equal those of an average high-school senior.

A Certificate of Proficiency, equivalent by law to a high school diploma, is awarded by the State Board of Education to those persons who pass the CHSPE.

Information bulletins, which include sample questions, a list of test sites, and an application form and mailing envelope, are available at all high schools and most public library branches or contact the Department's Program Evaluation and Research Division at (916) 445-0297.

Postmasters urge early filing of tax forms as April 17 deadline nears

With the April 17 tax filing deadline fast approaching, San Diego County postmasters are urging mailers to send in their tax forms as early as possible.

"We expect nearly 2 million tax returns to be mailed during the week before the April 17 deadline, with nearly 400,000 being mailed on April 17 itself," said San Diego Division General Manager Postmaster Margaret Sellers.

That volume ensures post office lobbies and parking lots will become increasingly busy as the tax deadline approaches.

Valle de Oro citizens' group to meet April 12

A proposal for a park and recreation assessment district in Spring Valley will be discussed, Wednesday, April 12, at Bancroft Elementary School.

Marty Nicholson, program director at the Spring Valley Community Center, will explain the plan at the monthly public meeting of the Valle de Oro Citizens' Association.

The meeting will be held in the Bancroft School Auditorium, 8805 Tyler St., at 7:30 p.m.

Firefighters dedicated to the protection of the public

The age-old vision of macho, stogie-smoking fireman playing interminable hands of gin rummy between fire calls, is obsolete today.

For one thing, the term "fireman" has been replaced by "firefighters."

Meet Nancy Shuster, for example. She's Lemon Grove's first female firefighter and, employing appropriate techniques, handles the high-pressure water hoses and a hefty ax with skill, despite her smaller size. Lively and attractive, Shuster couldn't be termed "macho" by anyone's standards.

Few firefighters indulge in tobacco in any form. And when the in-house maintenance of station, vehicles and apparatus is completed for the day, you are more likely to find the firefighters using the station's exercise machines or viewing a training video than shuffling a rummy deck. They are, in general, trimmer and more fit than the fireman of yesteryear.

Today's firefighter has the advantage of a far broader range of response techniques; training which wasn't available even 20 years ago, according to Ed Hayman, Assistant Fire Chief.

Seventy-six percent of the calls they respond to are for first aid, and are often first on the scene to take action until paramedics arrive. Firefighters have to know how to assess the situation and assist the ill or injured party. All of them are certified for advanced first aid. Every two years, they each are re-certified to conduct CPR, and every firefighter attends classes—again every two years—to maintain his or her credentials as an EMT—Emergency Medical Technician, Hayman said.

These training programs are reviewed, revised and updated frequently.

Hayman is enthusiastic about Automatic Aid, a program he's found to be very successful in Lemon Grove and the communities which surround the city.

"Our department responded to 1,965 calls in 1988. Of those calls, 21 percent were Auto-Aid calls. Surprised, people ask me, 'You mean our firefighters go outside of Lemon Grove 21 percent of the time?' Yes, they do!"

"But, when we have any type of structure fire, we have, in exchange, engine companies responding here from other districts," Hayman explained.

"If the fire is within our business district, we get an engine company from the San Miguel (formerly Spring Valley) Fire District, and we get a truck company from La Mesa or San Diego. We receive services and equipment the City of Lemon Grove could not possibly afford—about $500,000 for the vehicle and equipment, not to mention the cost of the four men who respond with it."

"We give the out-of-town support when it's needed, and the assistance is returned when we need it here. That kind of cooperation saves all the communities—and therefore all the taxpayers—a lot of money," he said.

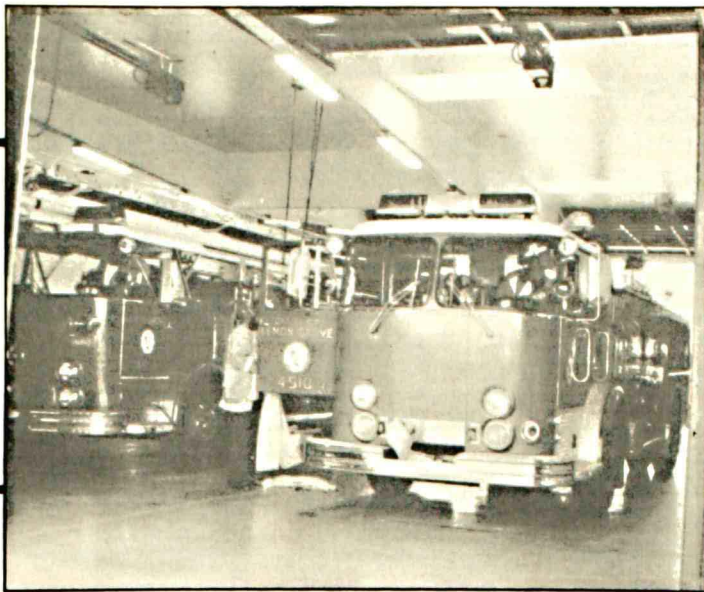

The department has absorbed these expanding services, Hayman said. "In 1969 there were 257 response calls—averaging one every day and a half. In 1988, there were 1,965—an average of 5.4 calls per day, every day. And we have one additional firefighter now, than in 1969. We could certainly use another," Hayman stated.

More than half of the city's budget—56.3 percent—is dedicated to the protection of the public. The Sheriff's Department claims 28.6 percent, or $1,354,000. The Fire Department operation receives 27.7 percent of the budget, or $1,178,280.

"Sure, that's a lot of money. But you get fire protection, first-aid and other health-related emergency responses; you get fire prevention, earthquake preparedness, and public education and safety."

The 21 firefighters who serve Lemon Grove are divided into three shifts, to provide round-the-clock protection with an average maximum response time of three minutes, within the city.

So if you should call 9-1-1 for an ambulance, don't be alarmed to see a big, red rig pull up to your door. Lemon Grove's firefighters will make those first crucial moments count, until paramedics can reach you.

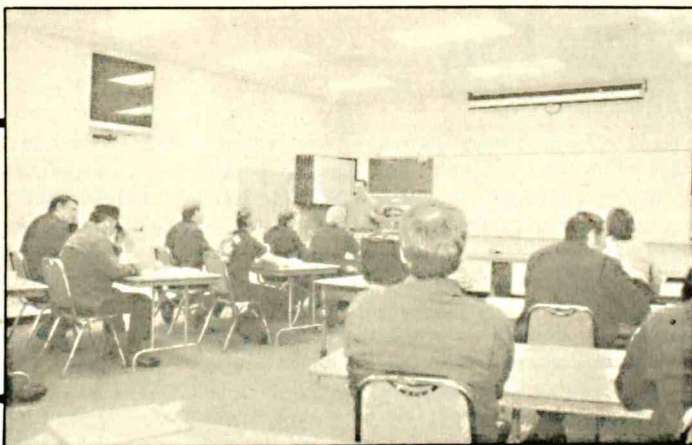

These fire trucks respond to an average of 5.4 calls per day.

Fire truck is ready for callout.

Firemen record the official weather readings.

Blood Bank speakers available to groups

Speakers from the San Diego Blood Bank are available to speak to groups throughout San Diego County on topics relating to blood donation and transfusion as well as the National Marrow Donor Program which the Blood Bank joined last year.

Local civic clubs, church groups and schools interested in hearing about the programs of the San Diego Blood Bank should call Sheila Bulley at 296-6393.

Pamphlets describing the Blood Bank Speakers' Bureau also are available for more information.

The San Diego Blood Bank is a county-wide service to the 28 civilian hospitals here. In addition to supplying blood and blood-related laboratory services to the local civilian hospitals, the San Diego Blood Bank also is part of the National Marrow Donor Program which searches for donors to match patients needing bone marrow transplants nationwide.

State lifeguard swim tests to be held on April 9 at Carlsbad State Beach

The California State Lifeguard Service will hold its annual seasonal lifeguard qualification swim tests along with the veterans re-qualification swim at Carlsbad State Beach, south of the warm water jetties directly across from the Encina Power Plant.

The returning lifeguards will start their 1,000 yard open re-qualification swim at 8 a.m., Sunday, April 9.

Those interested in trying out for the first time will swim the 1,000 yard ocean course first, and after a short break, will compete in the 800 yard run-swim-run course. All participants must bring an identification picture with them.

The State Lifeguard office phone is (619) 438-2675.

Commentary

by Max Goodwin

Let's hear it for former State Senator James R. Mills.

He has long had an eye for convenient, reasonable, plentiful transportation.

When he left the State Senate, he directed his energy to completing a much-needed trolley system he had already begun.

His bicycle lane project had been completed and was thriving. Through the bike lane project, he gave wide scope to bike travel with a safety that didn't exist pre-Mills.

His San Diego County trolley project was well under way with the San Diego-San Ysidro line running as a happily successful transportation venture.

He had his way with federal, state and local entities who financed the trolley projects. There had been only one glitch. Mills was miffed when the financing groups called it a trolley. "They're not trolleys," Mills complained. "Trolleys have a wheel riding against a wire energy source," he said. "This system has a bar against the wire. They are not trolleys."

He gave up the argument, but the financing of the system and the ridership has been uncommonly successful. Both the bike lanes and the trolley have had fair sailing since Mills got the program underway and into use.

So, on Sunday, May 14, the first half of the trolley's east line opens—7 weeks ahead of schedule. That part (4.5 miles) runs from Euclid Station, Encanto Station, 2 Lemon Grove Stations and on to La Mesa.

Earlier, on Friday, May 12, the short, official opening ceremony will be held at 10:40 a.m. at the La Mesa/Spring Street Station.

Then from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Saturday, May 13, East County residents are invited to get acquainted with their new LRT (light rail transit).

Special attendants will be at the 4 stations (Encanto/62nd St.), Lemon Grove/Massachusetts, Lemon Grove/Broadway, and La Mesa/Spring St., distributing complimentary Community Ride Day tickets.

There will be special activities and entertainment at each of the new stations.

The trolley opens officially Sunday, May 14, Mothers' Day. It will be the east line's first revenue day, with paid tickets required from everyone—except mothers. Special attendants will pass out complimentary 2-ride tickets to all moms, 9 a.m.-noon.

For commemorative-minded persons who want to ride the first trip over the entire 11 miles, the east-bound trolley will leave the Santa Fe Depot at 4:56 a.m. on Sunday. The first west-bound trolley will leave the Spring Street Station at 5:09 a.m.

Trolleys will then operate every 15 minutes during the day and every 30 minutes in the evenings, and during early-morning weekend hours.

Trolley tickets will be available from vendomats at each station. All vendomats accept coins; most also accept $1 bills.

The zone fare system will continue on the East Line, with fares priced on distance travelled. One-way trips will range from 50 cents to $2.

The last half of the East Line opens Sunday, June 25, also ahead of schedule. The San Diego Trolley System will have grown from 32 miles and from 22 to 30 stations.

In addition, the number of trolley vehicles will have increased from 30 to 50. The new line is expected to add 15,000 daily riders.

Said MTDB Chairman, Jim Mills, "We at MTDB are proud... to complete our light rail projects on time and under budget, especially since this is our first project that relies on federal support!"

He noted that the $108 million East Line project includes $58 million in federal funds, with the balance from local and state sources.

James R. Mills has done a Herculean job; one which few other people in this state could have accomplished, and his efforts should be commemorated.

What better way than to calendar each May 14 as J.P. Mills Trolley Day, and distribute trolley tickets free of charge FROM El Cajon TO Lemon Grove. That would encourage shoppers to come back again.

In the spirit of a kinder, gentler nation

by Horace B. Deets, executive director AARP

The late Hubert Humphrey once said that our country will ultimately be judged by how it treats its young, its old, its sick and its poor.

In 1972, Congress established the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program, administered by the Social Security Administration, to provide monthly cash benefits to low-income persons who are elderly, blind or disabled. Along with the previously passed Medicaid health care program for the poor, SSI was meant to be an economic "safety net" for the most vulnerable in our society.

For millions of Americans, the program has worked. Today, approximately 4.5 million people receive SSI benefits of up to $368 per month for an individual and $553 per month for a couple. (In most states, those who qualify for SSI benefits are also eligible for Medicaid health care coverage.) Instead of living in abject poverty and despair, SSI benefits allow these people to live with at least some measure of dignity and comfort.

Unfortunately for many other potentially eligible for the program, SSI remains a well-kept secret. Recent surveys have found that nearly half of all eligible older people are not receiving SSI benefits. More than a third of all potential recipients have never even heard of the program.

SSI funds are there for people who need them. With all of the cutbacks in programs for our nation's poor in recent years, it is a shame that an available program is not being fully utilized.

That's why the American Association of Retired Persons

(AARP) has undertaken an innovative SSI Outreach Project, designed to inform older adults about their right to receive SSI benefits, to help those who are eligible enroll in the program, and to test methods of reaching low-income people.

With a grant from The Commonwealth Fund Commission on Elderly People Living Alone, AARP launched the pilot project last year in three cities: El Paso, Texas; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; with the assistance of the local Area Agencies on Aging.

The results in each of the pilot cities were impressive. According to Social Security Administration records, the three cities reported an average 97 percent increase in the number of SSI applications, and a 58 percent increase in the number of SSI beneficiaries during the four months the outreach project was underway, compared to the same period the previous year. Because of the success of the SSI Outreach Project last year, AARP is expanding it to an additional ten communities this year.

The work done by volunteers from AARP and other organizations on this project has been outstanding, as has been the spirit of cooperation among the government agencies and local community groups who are helping to improve the quality of life for their fellow citizens in need.

President Bush has spoken of the need to make America a "kinder, gentler," more compassionate nation. In a practical way, the SSI Outreach Project is helping to do just that.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

"Quick! Come in here and see your competition." Willie Marie, my dear wife, was watching the evening news on T.V. and saw Joan Embry from the San Diego Zoo with a huge elephant named "Carol" crushing aluminum cans with her massive right foot. Willie also remarked in her own inimitable way, "If you get any heavier, you could take Carol's place."

Carol and I had something in common. I also used to crush cans with my big right foot until it got sore and wore out my shoe. I invented a machine out of junk parts to do the job with much less effort.

Carol, the elephant, and her handler, Alan Roocroft, go out to some of the local schools and crush aluminum cans to promote Rolph Benirschke's worthy cause, "Cans for Critters."

My frugal wife brings home sacks of empty cans daily, so about weekly, it's my job to smash the little gems. The proceeds from my smashing enterprise also goes to a worthy cause, to support my "habit" (eating). A man of my "high esteem" crushing cans was unbelievable until the price of aluminum rose to 78 cents a pound. Now I set up my machine in front of our garage and crush for all to see as now I am an "affluent man."

Best of all is the time I get to trade the swag for money. Every couple of months, I haul my sacks of crushed aluminum cans to the recycling depot up on Skyline Drive. Waiting in line, I make new friends and enjoy hearing how they are going to spend their little bit of extra income.

Sports Commentary

by John E. Wirges

The ladies, bless 'em, are facing tough competition. It almost looks as if they're taking on the whole sports world.

Women on the LPGA Tour will be in San Diego going head-on against the Masters Golf Classic on television, the Padres season-opening 3-game series against the San Francisco Giants, (and when the Padres go on the road, Roger Ward fills the San Diego Stadium raceway over the weekend with his famed Invitational Historic Grand Prix).

Meanwhile, down at the Sports Arena, France and the U.S. square off in Davis Cup competition. It's a full week of important sportin' events lined up against the gals of the golf tour.

But cream puffs don't make it in the LPGA and the gals are going to ignore the competition and swing away in an official tournament on one of the most difficult courses in California.

The last 4 days of the tourney are being held at the StoneRidge Country Club, which is on a mountain top where Rancho Bernardo rises high in the sky to meet Poway.

You get an idea about how tough this course is when you learn that the caddy master is a shepherd. There are several holes that require oxygen. The view is magnificent, with a vista of Imperial, Riverside, Orange and San Diego counties.

The folks at StoneRidge are hosting a full week of LPGA doings that include shootouts, a junior golf clinic, ProAms, pairing and awards parties, and 72 highly competitive holes of the 1989 Red Robin Kyocera Inamori Golf Classic.

The Ladies of the LPGA, like their sisters (and brothers) everywhere, like nothing better than being up close and personal with principals in a romantic misadventure. Needless to say, they are delighted to have former San Diego Padre (and LA Dodger) superstar Steve Garvey co-chairing the Kyocera's Classic ProAm.

But all that is just window dressing for a highly competitive tournament. Ayako Okamoto will be facing an amazingly tough field. LPGA events usually draw 18 or so of the tour's top-20 money winners and the Red Robin Kyocera Inamori Golf Classic is a favorite stop for the ladies.

Okamoto, a two-time winner of the Kyocera Classic, faces a two-way challenge. She has the entire field trying to beat her, of course, then she has Patty Sheehan.

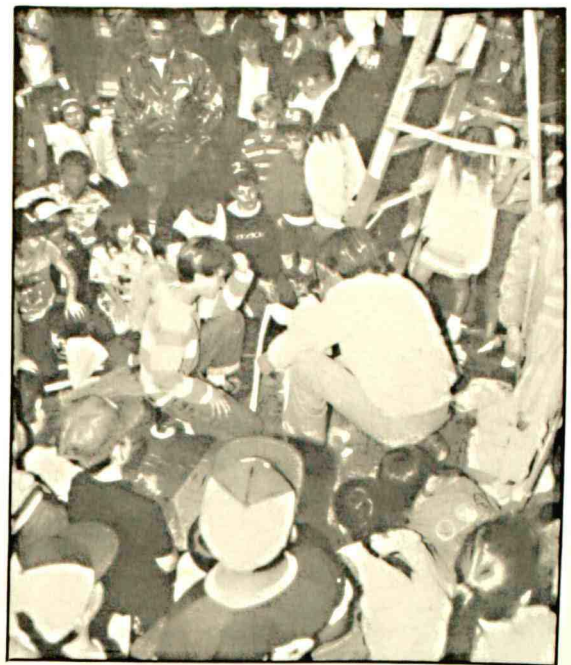

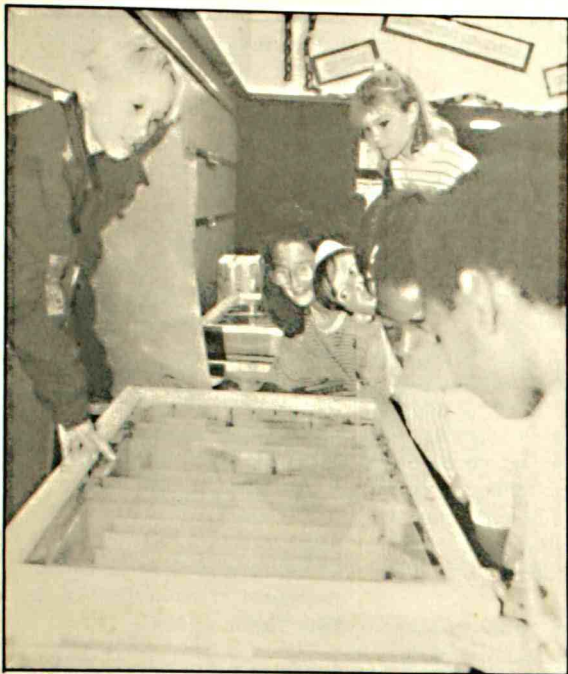

Patty won the Kyocera shindig the 3 other times it graced our tees and considers it her "good luck" tournament. She would like nothing better than to win another Kyocera title. Despite Ayako and Patty's winning ways, this is not a 2-filly race.

Long-driving Laura Davies of Great Britain is back after earning runner-up honors last year. And "Big Mamma," now down in size and up in spirit to "Sweet Mamma," Hall of Famer JoAnne Carner, is looking for her 43rd career win.

Local stars Barbara Barrow, Sharron Barrett, Debbie Skinner and Heather Drew (to name a few), could get real comfortable at "home" and challenge the field.

All that and Steve Garvey, too. It's a happening.

Science fair at San Miguel School a winner

The annual science fair at San Miguel Elementary School drew crowds of students, families and friends. Bright young minds were creatively challenged.

Angela Clark (center in top left photo) and her friends put "Whiskers" through his paces in the rat maze she built. Whiskers has learned to master the maze in 40 seconds—a feat which once took him 10 minutes. Angela is a fifth-grade student of Terri Nelson's.

Derek Peters (top center photo), a San Miguel second-grader tries out an exhibit made by another student. The creative device tosses favorite toys for Fido to retrieve.

This year's science challenge was the "egg drop." Participating students and their families were given ten sheets of paper, masking tape, scissors and 15 minutes to construct a device which would cushion an egg dropped from a variety of heights (top right photo).

John Houston, a visiting sixth-grader from Lemon Grove Middle School, checks out the electromagnet exhibit.

Earthquake Preparedness Month may make you tremble

It comes without warning, and you have no way of knowing how bad it will be until it is over. It is frightening, and can result in injury and death, and a great deal of construction.

April is Earthquake Preparedness Month, and if you don't believe it can happen here—can happen to you and the people you love—take a look at past news reports.

Devastation and death in Armenia, Mexico City, San Francisco, San Fernando, Coalinga, Whittier.

October 1, 1988, at 7:42 a.m., an earthquake measuring 5.9 on the Richter Scale, rocked Whittier, California in Los Angeles County. In the aftermath, 121 persons were hospitalized, 1,228 more were injured, eight died. Damaged and destroyed homes and apartments numbered 3,295. Can it happen here?

Experts state that San Diego County is criss-crossed with earthquake faults, and that although most of them are considered by geologists to be inactive, there are two we need to be concerned about, according to Jim Phelps, a spokesman for the San Diego County Office of Disaster Preparedness.

One, the Rose Canyon Fault, begins in the ocean and comes ashore near La Jolla, then heads south through Rose Canyon. The other is Elsinore Fault, which travels from Whittier, east to Riverside County, then southeast near I-15 and the San Diego County line, continuing to the east of Julian and almost to the Mexican border, Phelps stated.

Both of the faults are capable of producing major earthquakes of magnitudes up to 7.6 on the Richter Scale. Such an earthquake would cause a great deal of damage, and many area experts who have tracked the great shakes through history, say that the "Big One" is long overdue.

Although California will not fall into the Pacific Ocean (the portion of California west of the San Andreas Fault is firmly attached to the Pacific Plate, while the part of the state east of the fault lies on the North American Plate) it is very likely that San Diego and its surroundings will become an island off the coast of San Francisco— in about 500,000 years. San Diego and Los Angeles move about 2 1/2 inches north each year.

What can you expect if a 7.6 shaker occurs? Many travelers will be stranded because some bridges and overpasses will collapse. Buildings will be destroyed, and their rubble will make thoroughfares impassable. Streets may suddenly develop huge crevasses or breaks, with the side of the break yards higher, or lower, than the other. Trees will topple. Fires may erupt from broken gas lines, electric lines may shake or sizzle, it could take hours to trek home.

At home, your refrigerator has leaned through the kitchen wall, crushing the television in the next room. Bookshelves are down, shards of broken picture glass and mirror are scattered. Everything that could fall, has. The garage floor, crazed and cracked, is flooded with hazardous fluids and poisonous gardening powders. A favorite elm has fallen into the master bathroom. The house next door is ablaze and your water lines are broken. Communication lines may be down.

The nearest hospital is damaged and, attempting to cope with current patients, is unable to accept new admissions. Emergency responders won't get to your neighborhood for 3 days, perhaps longer. There are limited numbers of firefighters, paramedics and law enforcement officers. Search and rescue activities will be given high priority, and they will be sent to areas that have large numbers of people trapped or injured. Those departments may have damage problems to contend with and will need to help themselves before they can assist others, and debris must be cleared from roadways before emergency vehicles can enter an area.

The "Big One" will be a nightmare. Can it happen here? It not only can, but it will, experts say, and that it's simply a matter of time—perhaps time well utilized to prepare.

Next week we will offer suggestions on how to prepare for the "Big One."

Sheriff Duffy urges all to participate in three days of abstinence from alcohol products

The National Council on Alcoholism cordially invites all Americans to abstain from alcohol in any form—beer, wine, wine coolers, liquor—for the 72 hours of April 7, 8, and 9.

According to the San Diego Sheriff's Department, in the world of drug abuse, alcohol is the most frequently abused drug. The abuse of alcohol has ruined more marriages, careers, and lives than any of the illegal drugs currently being consumed. Drunk drivers kill over 25,000 people annually in this country and injure approximately 600,000. This figure continues to rise and continues to rise and continues to be the most frequently committed crime today.

Sheriff John F. Duffy, a founding board member of the National Council on Alcoholism urges support of National Alcohol-Free Weekend. To demonstrate the Sheriff's Department's commitment, the Quick Release Program for drinking drivers will be suspended from 6 PM, Friday, April 7 through midnight, Sunday, April 9th.

All drunk drivers arrested during this time frame will be booked, and they will remain in custody until bail is posted, or until they are arraigned.

New arts complex christened

Entire community to benefit from Teresa Wells' vision

More than three years have elapsed since Teresa Wells first dreamed of establishing a home for the arts in Lemon Grove. That vision, through the hard work and volunteer efforts of Wells and dozens of friends and supporters, along with community backing, became a reality last week.

Amid a gala grand-opening fete the evening of March 29, the all new Lemon Grove Arts Complex was brought to life. The official ribbon-cutting was accomplished by James V. Dorman, Mayor of Lemon Grove, and Miss Lemon Grove, Becki Battleson.

Dancers exhibited their skills in brief, well-spaced performances, applauded by more than 200 invited guests, who meandered through the lighted, mirrored studios and gallery exhibits, sampling buffet treats and toasting the long-awaited achievement.

The complex, at 8075 Broadway, will house the Community Arts Advisory Council (CAAC), which was founded by Wells in 1986. The CAAC is a non-profit, umbrella organization integrating local dance, drama and the visual arts—including the Community Ballet Theater (of which Wells is the director), the Lemon Grove players, a performing drama troupe, and individual visual artists whose works are exhibited in the complex gallery.

The focus of the CAAC is to promote all forms of artistic endeavors in the community and to provide quality education in the arts, in addition to presenting performances.

"The staff of the new arts complex is an outstanding group of trained professional artists," Wells said, adding that some of them are contributing their skills without charge to ensure the success of the effort.

"We have a nice array of classes to offer, and many summer programs, for all ages, are currently in the planning stages," she said.

Wells is joined in the dance department by instructors Robin Christ, John Simonson, Paul Giovinazzo and Dana Nelson.

David Adams and Jeff Foley direct and teach the art classes, which range from beginning art (ages 7 and under), to the advanced life drawing class that provides the opportunity of drawing from a live model, Wells commented.

Drama instruction is directed by Andrea Tofflemire and encompasses dramatics for young children (4-6 years) and acting skills development, as well as advanced techniques and stage performance preparation.

The class fees are nominal, Wells said, and are based on class length and frequency of attendance, with a family rate (two or more students in a family) also offered. Classes began last Saturday, but registration remains open, she stated.

The CAAC is supported in part by grants from the City of Lemon Grove, the County of San Diego, and the San Diego Public Arts Advisory Council.

Several corporations and foundations have contributed generously to the CAAC and to the construction of the complex; among them are: LandGrant Developers, Pacific Bell, Fletcher Foundation, San Diego Gas and Electric, Lee White Toyota, Wistanna Developers, Market Place at the Grove, Chilcote, Inc., and Russell Floor Co., as well as a host of local businesses and individuals.

Anne Boe, author of the just-released book, "Is Your Net Working?", will speak and autograph her book at the Women's Enterprises Network, Tuesday, April 18, 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the Stardust Hotel in Mission Valley.

This newly formed network will serve as a resource for information of value to women entrepreneurs.

Hors d'oeuvres will be served. $15 in advance or $20 at the door, on availability. Send check to Women's Enterprises, P.O. Box 99490, San Diego, 92109, or call 274-7626.

Chargers open pre-season with Dallas August 13

The San Diego Chargers will play the Dallas Cowboys in a nationally televised pre-season opening game Sunday, August 13, on the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The pre-season opener, scheduled to begin at noon in San Diego Jack Murphy Stadium, will mark the first appearance of the Chargers' Dan Henning and Dallas' Jimmy Johnson as head coach for their respective clubs.

The game may also mark the NFL debut of UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman, possible the Cowboys' first choice and the first pick in the NFL draft April

In between, the Chargers will play Monday night, Aug. 21, in Anaheim against the Los Angeles Rams, and Wednesday night, Aug. 23, at Candlestick Park against the Super Bowl Champion, San Francisco 49ers.

UCSD Diabetes Center offers free testing for diabetes on April 8

Free rapid glucose testing for diabetes will be offered 10 a.m.-2 p.m. April 8 at the UCSD Diabetes Center, 269 W. Washington Street in Hillcrest. The tests will be administered by nurses from the UCSD Diabetes Center.

Oroville Kolterman, M.D., medical director of the UCSD Diabetes Center said the onset of Type II diabetes often is gradual and undramatic, so that the condition may go undetected until one of its life-threatening complications such as eye problems, or heart or kidney disease develop. Regular screenings, especially for those with a history of diabetes in the family, are essential.

Some early warnings signs of diabetes may include frequent urination accompanied by unusual thirst, rapid weight loss with fatigue, irritability, nausea and vomiting. Any change in sight, skin infections, itching or numbness in legs, feet or fingers may also be symptoms indicating diabetes.

Call the UCSD Medical Center for reservations, 543-5820.

Social Security to be topic of senior luncheon group

All persons 55 years or over are cordially invited to the Windsor Hills Keenagers regular monthly luncheon-meeting at the Windsor Hills Baptist Church, 7485 Orien Drive, La Mesa, at noon on Wednesday, April 12th.

Mr. Post of the Social Security Office will discuss the new benefits and changes. The devotional and a little fiddle playing will be offered by Mr. Dale Henning.

A hot lunch will be served along with lots of love and fellowship. All this for only a $1.25 donation. Call Anna Stone 469-1361 or Pastor Terry 463-1201 for reservations.

CORRECTION

In an article last week, we reported that VFW Post 2082 hosts Sunday breakfasts as a fundraiser, open to the public.

The breakfasts are not open to the public, we have learned, but are attended by post members and their guests.

It is our policy to correct all errors of a material nature as soon as they are brought to the attention of the publisher. We regret the error and any embarrassment it may have caused.
